

Renaissance and Modern Studies

VOLUME XVIII · 1974

CONTENTS

- |     |                                                                                                                                                                                                  |     |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| I   | D. H. LAWRENCE: STUDY OF A FREE SPIRITIN LITERATURE by W. H. Roberts .. .. .                                                                                                                 | 5   |
| II  | THE GIVING OF LIVERY AND RETAININGIN HENRY VII'S REIGN by A. Cameron,Assistant Keeper of the Manuscripts, University ofNottingham .. .. .                                            | 17  |
| III | 'VOLPONE' AND 'THE ALCHEMIST': ACOMPARISON IN SATIRIC TECHNIQUES byRichard Dutton, Warden, Wroxton College ofFairleigh Dickinson University .. .. .                                  | 36  |
| IV  | GULLIVER AND THE RELATIVITY OFTHINGS: A COMMENTARY ON METHODAND MODE, WITH A NOTE ON SMOLLETTby Clive T. Probyn, Lecturer, Department ofEnglish, University of Lancaster .. .. . | 63  |
| V   | THE WAR OF 1870 IN THE PATTERN OFFRANCO-GERMAN RELATIONS by W. R.Fryer, Professor of History, University ofNottingham .. .. .                                                        | 77  |
| VI  | THE 'OUTSIDER' FIGURE IN DOSTOIEVSKY'SWORKS by Arian Kirilloff, Lecturer, Departmentof German and Russian, University College ofWales, Aberystwyth .. .. .                           | 126 |
| VII | BLUEPRINTS FOR UTOPIA: THE POLITICALIDEAS OF NIETZSCHE AND D. H.LAWRENCE by Eleanor H. Green, formerlyDepartment of English, University of Nottingham                                | 141 |